Providing practical solutions from experience

About MoRU

Certified and accredited by the IRM, it is a 2-day training programme delivered by IRM approved and experienced Envex risk trainers.

The ability to identify, understand and manage risk is now recognised as an important and vital leadership skill and a key element in corporate governance. MoRU addresses this need and explores the processes and techniques available for the successful assessment and treatment of risk, how to embed a culture of risk management and the codes covering corporate governance, reporting and monitoring.

MoRU provides a broad introduction to risk management. At the end, on completion of the course each delegate is invited to take a short assessment paper, which on successful completion, the delegate is awarded a certificate from the Institute of Risk Management.

Delegate Course Fees

£450 + VAT

Discounts available:

- £25 for IRM members and those studying for an IRM qualification
- £25 per delegate when booking a second or more personnel from the same organisation.

Prices include training, all course material including the 110 page workbook, lunch and all refreshments.

The courses are not residential and if accommodation is required then this must be arranged by the delegate. Envex can assist with information on hotel rates and discounts available if requested.

In-house courses

Envex offer MoRU as a cost effective risk training delivered in house. Although the course syllabus is defined, case studies and practical examples can be focussed to meet the challenges of your organisation sector. All the course material is provided including the 110 page workbook and the delegate is awarded a certificate from the Institute of Risk Management on completion of a short assessment paper.

Contact Envex to discuss this option - for example, for 10 delegates the fee is £3000+VAT. (Disbursements charged at cost).

Envex Helpline

After training, questions and queries may arise. To help professionally, Envex offer a 30 day Helpline to those who attended the course. They can contact Envex, preferably by email and we will respond promptly, usually within two days.
